Vision Center Practitioners

April 2007

Topcon Medical Systems, Inc. is proud of our long standing relationship with the Optical Division of Wal-Mart.

The Advanced Instrumentation Program is an important resource to assist you in developing a practice that will thrive in today's competitive business environment. As a busy practitioner you are constantly researching new opportunities to expand the scope of your practice and advance the quality of service you are able to provide to your patient base. This AIP is a unique program that provides you with purchasing power to do just that.

Topcon's participation in this program is part of our commitment to your business, now and into the future. We will provide you the latest in diagnostic instrumentation, and work with the Wal-Mart Optical Division to establish the best methods for utilizing this technology in your practices.

The staff at Topcon is ready to assist you with any question you may have regarding our line of instrumentation.
